

STUDENTS' EDITORIAL REPORT

As chairman of the School Magazine, I am pleased to extant this year's edition, which vitrines the ingenuity, aptitude, and essence of our school community. The theme, "Thee Campbell chronicles," has been exquisitely apprehended through innumerable contributions from scholars, tutors, and staff, fluctuating from provocative articles to spectacular oeuvre. I am especially blissful by the upsurge in partaking, with over 1500 scholars contributing their exertion to this publication, dazzling the growing fervor for the magazine.

I want to express my sincere gratitude to our editorial team for their hard work in curating and refining the content, ensuring the magazine is both engaging and of high quality. I also appreciate the support and guidance of our teachers and staff, whose input has been invaluable.

Despite encounters, we adapted swiftly and continued to work with resilience, using digital paraphernalia to keep the process moving forward. Looking ahead, we aim to expand the magazine's reach and encourage even more students to get involved. Most importantly, I want to thank Divinity for His guidance throughout this voyage, providing us with the strength and inspiration to overcome obstacles and create something meaningful. Thank you to everyone who contributed to this edition, and I look forward to another successful year of creativity and collaboration.
